Help Spread the Word About Preventing Elder Abuse
The Prosecutor’s Office is committed to vigorously prosecuting crimes against elderly citizens. Protecting our community's most vulnerable members is a top priority. That’s why we’re pleased to announce that a 2014 budget increase has allowed us to expand our Elder Abuse Unit. These additional resources allow for us to prosecute all types of cases involving elderly victims, including financial exploitation and physical abuse. Prosecutor Mark Lindquist and Deputy Prosecutor Erika Nohavec are available to speak to your group about preventing and responding to abuse of vulnerable adults. Please call (253) 798-6265 to schedule a presentation.
HEROS Program Ends
The HEROS+ (Helping Elders through Referral & Outreach Services) program will be ending June 30, 2014. We will stop taking HEROS+ referrals on May 30th. Unfortunately, there is no funding mechanism to support the kind of work that HEROS+ does through Medicaid, Medicare or private insurance. Over the past 5 years, OptumHealth has been the sole funder of the HEROS+ program. HEROS+ has assisted many at-risk older adults with so many things and for so many reasons: rental assistance to avoid eviction; utility assistance to avoid the power from being disconnected or to turn the power back on; emergency housing in a hotel; groceries, pet food, cloths, incontinence products; major cleanups for serious hoarding behavior to allow in-home providers to enter the home safely and/or to increase health and safety; overnight respite care for caregivers caring for a loved one with dementia; and so much more. With the end of the program, alternatives for HEROS+ include:

* If you encounter an older adult who would benefit from and agrees to mental health services you can contact our ACCESS line at: (253) 697-8400
* If you believe an older adult is experiencing a mental health crisis, please contact CRISIS at 1-800-576-7764
* If you encounter an individual who you suspect is a vulnerable adult, 60 years of age and older and is being financially exploited; physically, emotionally or sexually abused; or unable to care for themselves; please contact: Adult Protective Services, 1-877-734-6277
* If you are looking for information about Senior Services or don't know where you should turn for help; please contact: Pierce County, Aging & Disability Resource Center, (253) 798-4600.

For additional information contact Julie E. Jensen, PhD, (253) 697.8574 or julie.jensen@Multicare.org.

Milestones in Disability History: The Respectful Language Act
Ten years ago, a coalition of advocates decided to do something about the derogatory labels used to describe people with disabilities. They called it The Respectful Language Act. What they did had never been done before. This story belongs to them, but it also belongs to every citizen who has a right to speak up and make change happen, regardless of income, status, appearance, or political influence.

Zoo Walk is a weekly social engagement and fitness opportunity for people living with ESML. The program runs for 10-12 consecutive weeks, 9:30-11 a.m. (day to be determined) at Point Defiance Zoo and Aquarium. To learn more or to volunteer contact Pat Witt, LCSNW Caregiver Coordinator at (253) 722-5691.

State of Washington Wants to Help Family Caregivers
The state of Washington is looking to help current and future family caregivers – past, present and future caregivers. DSHS and its Area Agencies on Aging partners are working hard to improve information and supports for family caregivers across the state. That’s why we are asking family caregivers to complete an online survey. We want to hear your thoughts on: how to make helpful information and services easier to find, your caregiving experience and needs, and your preferences related to finding and using available local caregiver resources. We will use your feedback to improve program awareness, outreach and services. Please take a few moments to give us your feedback. The survey is available through June 30, 2014. Questions: please contact: Hilarie Hauptman, (360) 725-2556 or Hilarie.Hauptman@dshs.wa.gov.

Health Insurance Exchange Plan Rates for 2015
It is hard to determine a rate for insurance products on the Health Care Exchange. Plans don't really know the health of the risk pool yet, nor do they know what utilization for those consumers will look like. Filings for 2015 were built on only a few months of data, which followed a year that was very mostly stab in the dark. Reviewing the 2015 filings for insurance carriers entering the Exchange tells this tale pretty clearly. Molina is requesting an average drop in rates of 6.8%. At the high end, Coordinated Care has asked for a 11.2% increase, as has Group Health (though Group Health also requested a 14.2% increase for products off the Exchange). Drawing specific conclusions about rate drivers is tricky, but it's still clear that pricing these products is as much art as it is science.

Washington Ranks 15th for Senior Health
Washington is ranked 15th for senior health, according to United Health Foundation’s America’s Health Rankings® Senior Report. Nationwide, seniors are showing encouraging gains in key health measures and taking more steps to improve their own health. Notable gains for senior health include declines in physical inactivity, improvements in quality of nursing home care, reductions in avoidable hospitalizations, and increased preparation for end-of-life care. Breast Cancer Navigator Program For Minority Women
For many women diagnosed with breast cancer, the journey to recovery can be a long and lonely one. This is especially true for minority women. Because of cultural differences and language barriers, they do not feel comfortable asking for assistance from medical professionals until it is too late. In collaboration with Franciscan Health System, KWA's Breast Cancer Navigator Program connects these women with community navigators, other women with similar cultural backgrounds who can act as liaisons between patients and the medical world. Along with providing emotional support, these navigators accompany the patients to doctors’ appointments, act as interpreters and help with access to food banks and public transportation. A Life Saved: Community Cancer Navigators, a short documentary produced by North Woods Productions, highlights the relationships between a few breast cancer patients and their navigators. More information, visit the program page or call (253) 535-4202.

Sash Coffee Times For the Summer
Instead of SASH’s hosting the normal six Coffee Times a month that we have done for years, we are doing a fun series of summer events. There will be only 3 Coffee Times all summer - one in June, one in July, and one in August, and everyone is invited to all 3 of them. This way, elder care providers who are accustomed to attending one Coffee Time can meet providers from another, and they can have the opportunity to grow their network and meet new people in the elder care community. These events are called “Sippin' Summer Socials.” June 20 at Third Place Books in Ravenna, 6504 20th Ave NE in Seattle; July 11 at Central Summer Social at the SASH Office in Seatac, 4800 S. 188th St. Suite 220’ August 6 at La Quinta Inn in Tacoma, 1425 E 27th St. Call (206) 501-4375 for details.

Q&A of the Month

Question: I heard that Social Security pays benefits to children. How is that? I thought Social Security was a retirement program.

Answer: Last year about 3.2 million children under the age of 18 received an average monthly benefit of $534 because one or both of their parents are disabled, retired or deceased. When a parent becomes disabled or dies, Social Security benefits help to stabilize the family’s financial future. Also, an adult disabled before age 22 may be eligible for child’s benefits if a parent is deceased or starts receiving retirement or disability benefits. The “adult child” – including an adopted child, or, in some cases, a stepchild, grandchild, or step grandchild – must be unmarried, age 18 or older, and have a disability that started before age 22. Check out this special Social Security webpage on the topic.

Autism Spectrum Disorders: Webinar In Spanish
It is estimated that 1 in 68 children has an autism spectrum disorder (ASD). Hispanic children are often diagnosed later than the national average. With prevalence rates on the rise, it is important that families of underserved communities have access to quality information and resources. The Autism NOW Center offers this free resource to Spanish-speaking families. Join us for this new webinar, which will be offered entirely in Spanish, to learn more about autism spectrum disorders. Presenters will provide an overview of ASD; discuss steps involved in screening and diagnosis; address existing barriers for Latino families; and help connect families to resources in their community. How Misunderstanding Disability Leads to Police Violence
Encounters with police have taken an unnecessarily violent turn for people with disabilities that are not psychiatric or intellectual, including conditions that are physical or sensory. Americans with disabilities are victims of violent crimes at nearly three times the rate of their peers. Read the story in The Atlantic. (Source: The Atlantic)

VA Care Different from Military Care

Focus on Long Term Care Services and Providers
Long-Term Care Services in the United States: 2013 Overview is a report from the CDC presenting the initial results of the National Study of Long-Term Care Providers (NSLTCP). The study found that approximately eight million Americans received care services from about 58,000 paid providers in 2012, and the report breaks down the numbers and demographics of consumers utilizing various types of care providers. The report also includes information about size, ownership and staffing by region and type of care provider. (Source: Lewin Group)

Comedy Making a Positive Difference in Understanding Disability
One of the most audacious and exciting forms of treatment for mental illness is laughter. David Granirer of Vancouver B.C. who lives with depression, is a counselor, stand-up comic, keynote speaker on mental health and author (The Happy Neurotic, How Fear and Angst Can Lead to Happiness and Success). David founded “Stand Up for Mental Health“, an 8 week stand-up comedy program for people with mental illness as a way of building self-esteem and fighting public stigma. Trainings are held on Skype sessions until the end of the course when David travels to perform with the group all across the U.S., Canada and Australia. Here’s a small sample of some of the comedy routines. (Source: ALTSA)

Home Health Care vs. Custodial Care: Understand the Difference
A common question asked of benefits counselors is, “Will Medicare help pay for care at home?” There is a distinct difference between the skilled, intermittent home health care that Medicare covers and assistance with household tasks and custodial care, which it does not. Learn more about this difference, what Medicare covers, and other programs that can help pay for custodial care in NCA’s new fact sheet, Home Health Care vs. Custodial Care. (Source: NCOA)

New Study Details How Seniors Choose Medicare Plans
A Kaiser Family Foundation (KFF) study investigated how seniors make their Medicare plan choices. With the increase in plan options over the past 20 years, and the rise in the popularity of the Medicare Advantage program, the plan options for Medicare beneficiaries have become increasingly difficult to navigate. Overall, the study found that, while beneficiaries like having a choice in Medicare plans, most feel they lack the tools and the knowledge to choose the works best for them. Quiet but Significant Shift by CMS on the Medicare Improvement Standard
Although slow to spread outside of the Beltway, there's been a discreet but significant “clarification” made to the CMS policy manual outlining Medicare coverage requirements and regulations. As a result of a 2011 lawsuit settlement, CMS has revised program manuals to clarify that no “Improvement Standard” is to be applied when determining coverage eligibility for skilled care. While CMS has promoted that this is not a change in beneficiary eligibility, but rather a clarification of standing regulations, the issue is significant to Medicare beneficiaries who were previously denied skilled care services for conditions that would not necessarily improve with services. While CMS was required to notify providers of this change, the same standard didn’t apply to beneficiaries. Recently, The New York Times called this clarification “A Quiet Sea Change in Medicare.” (Source: N4A)

New CMS Medicare Program to Allow Both Hospice and Curative Treatments
A new program from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services may remove a barrier that makes patients hesitate to opt for hospice care near the end of life. Until now, to receive hospice care, patients had to agree to forego any further attempts at curative treatments. The new Medicare Care Choices Model will soon offer an option for Medicare beneficiaries to receive palliative care services from certain hospices while still receiving treatment from curative care providers.
