

☞ How the Process Works ☜

To file an Ethics Code complaint, fill out the form located inside this brochure. All complaints are confidential, unless and until a violation is found.

A Hearing Officer will decide if there is probable cause to believe that a violation of the code has actually occurred.

Meetings are open to the public and you are encouraged to attend. Meetings are held the second Thursday of each month (except holidays) at 4:30 p.m. at the Pierce County Annex, located at 2401 S. 35th Street, Conference Room D, Tacoma, Washington.

Pierce County Code of Ethics Chapter 3.12

Pierce County acknowledges the need for integrity in government and recognizes that the people of Pierce County consider governmental service to be a public trust. The purpose of this Chapter is to establish ethical standards of conduct for all officials and employees of the County, and for all people dealing with Pierce County government.

The Code shall be liberally construed in favor of protecting the public's interest in full disclosure of conflicts of interest and promoting ethical standards of conduct for County officials, employees, and persons dealing with Pierce County government.

The Hearing Officer investigates complaints to determine if probable cause exists to believe the Ethics Code was violated.

The Ethics Commission holds hearings to determine whether a violation occurred and imposes penalties.

Ethical Government is Everyone's Responsibility

Any person with knowledge of a Pierce County Ethics Code violation by a county employee, or any person dealing with Pierce County government, may file a complaint with the Pierce County Ethics Commission.

It is the Ethics Commission's duty to examine questionable behavior, as defined by the Pierce County Ethics Code, and to resolve complaints.

Pierce County's Ethics Commission exists as a non-biased resource for the community and can provide information and solutions.
